

Control SEC-PAY-04 · Revision 3.2 · 02 July 2026

4.1 Credential retention prohibition

Payment credentials must not be persisted by Northstar Commerce after authorization. This prohibition includes primary account number, card verification code, expiry data, and any reusable payment credential or provider token that can initiate a later charge.

4.2 Approved payment flow

Collect card credentials in the payment provider's hosted fields. Send them directly to the provider for authorization. The commerce application may retain the provider transaction reference and the masked display brand/last four digits only when the reference cannot be used to initiate a new transaction.

4.3 Release gate

Any feature that asks to remember a payment method requires a documented review by Security and Compliance. No release may store reusable credentials unless this control is formally revised and approved.
